

Letter from Jason S. Joy to Gilbert Grosvenor, May 11, 1939

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation STUDIOS BEVERLY HILLS, CALIFORNIA
OFFICE OF JASON S. JOY May 11, 1939 Dear Doctor Grosvenor:

I fully intended to have another visit with you while I was in Washington but unfortunately the rapid schedule that I have been following for the last several months caught up with me and I was forced to take a little time off. I am now returned to California feeling healthy and spry, ready to take up the load again.

I am enclosing copies of two resolutions which will be of interest to you in connection with some conversation we had relative to the Brantford hope that they might appear prominently in the picture. I find that the discussions up there have gone so far that large groups all over the province of Ontario, and reaching into other provinces are discussing the boycott of the picture and all theatres which play it. I understand that the General Manager of our Canadian business has arranged to attach to the film some shots of Brantford, Dr. Alexander Graham Bell's home there, the monument erected to his memory, and some sort of a footnote giving Brantford full credit. I have not seen this so I can not explain it to you more carefully, but I thought you would be interested in knowing about it.

Please tell Mrs. Grosvenor that I received her very nice letter and I appreciate it very much, as do all of the folks here with whom I have shared it. I hope all of you are in fine health, and that I shall have occasion to see you again before very long.

Sincerely yours, Jason S. Joy Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor Washington, D.C.
